Jon MacKinder

December 2, 1998

The 2nd incident of Jon MacKinder hitting me started because he took out a tape recorder to tape record me so that he could prove to everyone that I was psychotic. He would conveniently turned off the tape recorder when he was invalidating and evaluating me. I went to grab the tape recorder and that's when he threw me across the room and I landed on my glass dining room table. I then proceeded again to obtain the tape recorder and this time he picked me up and threw me and the lamp I was holding on to out of my house.

My neighbors all witnessed this. He then locked me out of my house. After banging on the door, he let me in and I was told by him "Look what you did to that lamp". He then went into my office and called Jim Hamre his reg at the Ventura mission and I again proceeded to obtain the tape recorder, at that time Jon MacKinder pushed me back against the the two office chairs and I fell through them hitting the floor on my head. At that point Jon MacKinder told Jim on the phone that I flung myself into the chairs, I grabbed the phone and told Jim the Jon was lying. My neighbors across the way witnessed this.

That day I went to CCI and routed myself to ethics and hand wrote a kr on this sit taking full responsibility for what occurred. Jon MacKinder went into to session at Ventura Mission. He took no responsibility for hitting me nor causing the incident instead he blamed it all on me.
